Projects

Product Manager Clone

Product Manager Clone is an Ionic Angular application designed to help businesses efficiently manage their product inventory. With this app, users can easily search for products by their unique UPCA skus and assign them to specific locations using location codes.

The app allows users to add new products to their inventory, update product information such as price, quantity and location, and delete products that are no longer in stock. Users can also view detailed product information such as product image, name, description, price, and location.

Pets N Pals

"Pets N Pals" is a responsive web application built with NextJS that provides a platform for pet owners to stay informed about the latest healthcare tips and news concerning their furry friends. The app uses conditionals to fetch articles and products catered to the registered pet's breed, ensuring that pet owners receive the most relevant information for their pets.

Film Rental Web App

This dynamic React app features an online film rental service where users can browse through a catalog of films and rent them for a specified period. Users can also bookmark their favorite films for future reference and leave reviews to share their opinions and experiences with others.
